FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

United Kingdom – As the digital age envelops us, many organisations and charities are working hard to get children outside exploring the natural world. Among all of the resources currently available, none is as beautiful and inspiring as the six new titles being launched by Fine Feather Press.

These have been written to help children identify with the natural world around them and empower them to get out and explore it. With the emphasis on encouraging active learning through play, the books are already striking a chord with thousands of families across the country.

Each new title is captivating from start to finish...

ABC Nature Activity Cards: These beautiful alphabet flashcards have an original natural history twist and humour that makes the learning-to-read experience fun for children, parents and grandparents. Packed with imaginative preschool games, their fold-over design makes them perfect for sharing and for putting up around the home to help reinforce letter learning.

Let’s Look For Series (Birds, Butterflies, Garden Wildlife, Wild Flowers): Launching with four books, this delightful new series forms the perfect introduction to nature and provides an ideal way of getting children outside and giving them something fun to do. Each title features animals and plants to find and tick off as well as 30 stunning stickers, fascinating facts and a fold-out play scene.

Get Out Nature Puzzles & Games: Pencils at the ready! This enchanting activity book is bursting with life and will keep children amused for hours as they solve, colour, draw, find and guess their way through the seasons. Guaranteed to inspire a love of the outdoors from an early age, it also includes a stunning fold-out wall chart with plants and animals to find and tick off.

As the company's founders Caz Buckingham and Andrea Pinnington explain below, their books are written to capture young children's attention and inspire them to get out of the house.

"Statistics are proving that year on year children are spending too many hours of the day inside. Whether or not technology is to blame, we want to make a difference and get kids into the open, among nature and into an endless world of exploration," says Andrea, a seasoned publisher.

Continuing, "It's important that they are so much more than just books. That's why we've made them as interactive as possible to inspire children to take on the big wide world with gusto."

Critics praise Andrea and Caz for their diligent efforts in inspiring young children and enriching their lives. And with more books currently in production, there are many further adventures to look forward to from this creative company.

With Get Out already reprinting and the upcoming summer season expected to make the books' popularity soar, readers are urged to purchase their copies as soon as possible.
